Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 22 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Becoming dry, rather cloudy overnight. Warm sunshine Friday, feeling fresher.

This Evening and Tonight:
Any isolated heavy showers or thunderstorms soon fading to leave a dry night, with clear skies for many, especially through the evening. Low cloud may drift in from off the North Sea overnight. Another warm and muggy night to come. Minimum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Friday:
Early low cloud mainly retreating back to the coast to leave another dry day, with plenty of warm sunshine. Feeling much less hot compared to recent days. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Turning unsettled with rain or thunderstorms moving up from the south on Saturday. Further heavy and thundery showers on Sunday and Monday. Feeling warm and humid for many.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.